- (a) Figures are part of a new series of population estimates based on natural increase and transfers of residence and omitting short-term holiday, business, and other similar movements between States.
- (b) For the 1966 Census, the Brisbane Statistical Division was defined to embrace within a fixed boundary the area in close economic and social contact with the capital city and to contain the anticipated urban development around the capital for a period of at least 20 to 30 years. In an area of 953 square miles, it includes the Cities of Brisbane, Ipswich, and Redcliffe and parts of the Shires of Albert, Beaudesert, Caboolture, Moreton, Pine Rivers, and Redland. Within this Statistical Division, the area of continually expanding urbanisation was defined for the 1966 Census as the Brisbane Metropolitan Area. At any given period, it incorporates all contiguous census collectors' districts with a population density of 500 or more persons per square mile, and at 30 June 1966 had an area of about 233 square miles and a population of 719,140.
- (c) Excess of births over deaths.
- (d) At the end of the period shown.
